Schwartz (Schwartz E., Robinson L., Wolpert J., Grossack A., Demuy V., Kranyak J.), the former leaders, are now second (60.14 VPs).

They are followed by Donner (Donner G., Rimstedt S., Rimstedt C., Grue J., Moss B., Michielsen M., Cullin P.O., Dwyer K.) (59.73 VPs).

Today two matches will be played.

Today is July 14, the anniversary of the storming of the Bastille, so we thought to publish this card set designed during the French Revolution.

From OLL website:

"This is a playing card from a charming collection of new designs for a deck which were issued during the French Revolution. They were designed by moderate liberal republican supporters of the revolution who believed in the rule of law, free markets, the equality of women under the law, and the emancipation of slaves. As they said in their pamphlet they wanted to reinforce the principles of the revolution in such everyday items as playing cards, since the traditional designs had face or "court" cards depicting Kings, Queens, and Jacks who were the beneficiaries of the old privileged political order which had just been overthrown."

Rounds 2 & 3

by Brian Senior

Round 2

The majority bid and made slam on this first deal but some had problems in either bidding or play.

Board 7. Dealer South. All Vul.

Rippey opened 1♠ then rebid the suit and what else was Nowak to do than jump to 3NT? When Rippey passed that the good slam had been missed. MacAonghusa led a low heart round to the ten and queen and Nowak led a heart to the nine then cashed the ace of clubs and, on seeing the four-nil split, continued with a low club for the ten and queen. A heart to the ace allowed Nowak to cash the top spades, discarding a heart and a diamond, then repeat the club finesse. On the run of the clubs, MacAonghusa came down to one card in each of the other three suits and Nowak led the ♢J from hand. Pigot won the queen and was end played to lead back into the PA9 to give the twelfth trick; +690.

Contrast that auction with the Irish one. Walsh not only raised clubs at his second turn but, when Coyne then bid 3NT, went on with a 4♢ cuebid. The redouble showed first-round control and, when Walsh now showed a heart control, Coyne jumped to the small slam. Nawrocki led the seven of diamonds to the queen and ace. Coyne led the queen of hearts and Nawrocki covered – king, ace. Coyne discarded two hearts on the top spades, came back to hand with a heart to the jack, then ruffed a diamond. A spade ruff was followed by a second diamond ruff, then the nine of hearts was ruffed with the jack and over-ruffed. Coyne ruffed the last diamond, cashed the ace of clubs, and had all 13 tricks for +1390 and 12 IMPs to PIGOT.

Both N/S pairs bid smoothly to the top spot and both received the lead of a low heart.

Igoe ran the opening lead to the ten and his jack and immediately played a club to the ace, discovering the four-nil break. He took two diamond pitches on the top spades, led a club to the ten and queen, and played ace of diamonds then ruffed his last diamond. A club to eight was followed by the king of clubs and now Igoe repeated the heart finesse. He had to lose to the ♡K at trick 13 but had 12 tricks for +1370.

Schwartz rose with the ♡A at trick one and ruffed a spade. A club to the ace was followed by a second spade ruff and now he played the queen of hearts. Malhasyan won the king and gave Harris a heart ruff. Harris returned the king of diamonds and Schwartz won the ace then ruffed a diamond, and attempted to cash the top spades. When the first of those was ruffed, he over-ruffed, ruffed a diamond and led the other spade winner. That too was ruffed and over-ruffed, and Schwartz had to lose one more trick in the endgame; down two for –200 and 17 IMPs to HARRIS.

Gold rebid an artificial 2♢ then admitted to club support. When Black suggested playing in 3NT, Gold went on with a 4♢ cuebid and Diamond's double, allowing Black to show first-round control via a redouble, just speeded things up slightly as Gold jumped to the slam. Silverstone led the three of diamonds in response to his partner's double of the cuebid. That went to the queen and ace and Black ruffed a diamond then played ace of clubs and a club to the ten and queen. The queen of hearts won the next trick, and Black now took a second diamond ruff, cashed the top spades, throwing his last diamond and a heart, ruffed a spade, then ran the jack of hearts. When that won the trick, Black cashed king of clubs before playing a heart to the ace. That was ruffed, but that was all for the defence; +1370.

Brekka rebid 3♢, showing shortage with genuine club support. He committed to clubs at his next turn then asked for key cards and even made a grand slam try before settling for the small slam. McIntosh led a heart and, like Schwartz, Kvangraven rose with the ace. He ruffed a spade and, with his mind very much focused on playing on spades, continued by cashing the king of clubs. Kvangraven played ace of diamonds and ruffed a diamond, followed by the top spades. Hult did not ruff, preferring to discard his remaining heart. Kvangraven ruffed a spade, ruffed a diamond, then played dummy's last spade, which was ruffed high and over-ruffed. Kvangraven ruffed the last diamond with the ace of clubs and led a heart. Hult ruffed that and the jack of clubs won the last trick for down one and –100; 16 IMPs to BLACK.

Ten pairs bid and made a club slam, while two went down. The remaining four pairs stopped in 3NT, making with overtricks.

Seven E/W pairs played in 3♡ on this next deal, East opening with a pre-empt and nobody feeling able to come in. There was also one pair in 4♡ when Hult raised McIntosh's 3♡ opening to game. None of these heart contracts was made. Then there were the fun tables:

Board 10. Dealer East. All Vul.

Wolpert passed over 3♡ but Schwartz wasn't prepared to pass when holding a seven-card suit and two aces so overcalled 4♢. Wolpert suggested playing in clubs, but Schwartz remembered the old adage that seven-card suits should not be put down in dummy and repeated his long suit. Malhasyan led the king of hearts. Schwartz won the ace and took the spade finesse. When it won he had a discard for his heart loser and he continued by playing the queen of diamonds. Harris erred by covering, and the fall of the ten of diamonds meant that Schwartz had no trump loser and could simply concede two club tricks; just made for +600.

Natt doubled the opening pre-empt and Igoe suggested playing in NT. However, when that came round to Demuy he doubled, trusting his partner to have decent values for a vulnerable pre-empt. That saw Igoe change his mind about which game to play in and he jumped to 5♢, again doubled by Demuy. Kranyak led his singleton club and three rounds of those saw him collect a ruff. Igoe won the heart lead, crossed to the ace of spades, and led the queen of diamonds, running it when Demuy played low. Now Igoe played a winning club off the dummy and Demuy gave up his trump trick to prevent declarer from taking a discard. That meant that Igoe lost a heart at the end so was down two for –500 and 15 IMPs to SCHWARTZ.

Gillis v Leslie

Brogeland doubled the 3♡ opener and Lindqvist jumped to 5♢ in response. Byrne doubled that and Dyke led his singleton. Again, three rounds of clubs saw a defensive ruff, and now Dyke returned a heart. Lindqvist played as had Igoe, with the same result; down two for –500.

Saelensminde opened a level lower, and that gave Norton room to come in with a 3♣ overcall. He showed his second suit at his next turn and Bell opted for 3NT. However, when Gillis doubled that, Bell thought better of it and ran to 4♣, again doubled by Gillis. The heart lead was won by dummy's ace and Norton led a spade to his ace, ruffed a spade, played ace then ruffed a diamond, ruffed another spade, and ruffed a diamond. The winning ♠Q was ruffed and now Norton's clubs were sequential and he could claim two more tricks and his contract; +710 and 15 IMPs to LESLIE.

Pass	5♣	All Pass

Grossack opened at the two level so Szegedi overcalled and McNay competed with 3♡. Nikolenkov cuebid but then signed off in game at his next turn and, despite his opponents's slam try, McNay doubled the final contract. McNay led a heart to the ace and Szegedi led a spade off the table. He had a choice of winning finesses in spades or diamonds now and, given where the doubles had come from, presumably intended to win the ♠A then run the queen of diamonds to create a discard for his heart loser. However, Grossack put up the king of spades, so Szegedi won the ace and cashed the queen, ruffed his heart loser, then cross-ruffed diamonds and spades, and had 11 tricks for +750.

Dumbovitch opened 3♡ Had Manno passed. Di Franco made an imaginative 3NT overcall and Manno responded 4♡, presumably showing long clubs. There was no double of the fianl contract at this table. Dumbovitch led the king of hearts. Di Franco won the ace and led a spade to the ace then ran the queen of diamonds. When that passed off peacefully, he ruffed a spade, took a heart pitch on the ace of diamonds, and ruffed in turn a heart, a spade, a diamond, and the queen of spades. He had two trump tricks to come so 11 in all for +600 but 4 IMPs to HUNGARY.

While it was tough with East on lead, the two Wests might have considered leading a top club. If, on sight of dummy, they judged to continue with two more rounds, they would be richly rewarded.

Board 14. Dealer East. None Vul.

Saelensminde opened the East hand with 1♢ and Gillis bid his long clubs then, when the pre-emptive heart raise came back to him, showed his second suit. When Saelensminde raised to game, Gillis first made a slam try then went on to 6♠ over his partner's sign-off. That was all understandable enough, and Gillis was somewhat unfortunate to find his partner with four low spades along with an almost useless ace of hearts. Bell led a diamond to the king and ace and Gillis discarded his remaining diamond on the heart switch, won the ace, and cashed the top spades. The inevitable trump loser went that he was down one for –50.

Dyke opened a potentially doubleton club and Byrne showed a constructive club hand then, when Dyke showed spades, just blasted 6♣, knowing that his partner had at least tolerance for the suit. Brogeland led the jack of spades, Dyke winning dummy's ace and leading a club to the king then back to the ace. The three-one split meant that he had to cash a third top trump, then he led a diamond to the queen and ace. Dyke won the low spade return and led a diamond to the ten. When that won he had two discards on the ♢K and ♡A, +920 and 14 IMPs to LESLIE.

Schwartz v Harris

West	North	East	South
Harris	Schwartz	Malhasyan	Wolpert
–	–	1♢	1♡

–	–	1♢	1♡
2♣	3♡	Pass	4♡
4♠	Pass	4NT	Pass
6♣	All Pass

Harris doubled the 1♡ overcall to show his four-card spade suit, and that enabled Malhasyan to compete with 3♠ over the pre-emptive heart raise. Harris made a slam try but then respected his partner's sign-off. That was well done in terms of stopping at a making level for spades, though of course slam is possible in clubs, as we have seen. Malhasyan ruffed the heart lead, cashed the top spades, then played on clubs, losing a spade and a diamond; +450.

Demuy bid his long suit then followed through with 4♠ when the bidding came back to him at the four level. Now Kranyak did very well to go on, and Demuy jumped to the club slam. Demuy ruffed the heart lead and led a diamond to the king and ace. Back came a spade, which he won with the ace. Demuy crossed to the king of clubs and took a spade pitch on the ace of hearts. Then he cashed five rounds of clubs, discarding three spades and one diamond from dummy. The king of spades saw Igoe pitch his last heart. Not that it mattered with the ♢J in the slot, but the defence had let go all their hearts except, slightly curiously, South's eight. Demuy had been paying careful attention, as one would expect, and knew that dummy's ♡9 was a winner. Accordingly, he discarded the ♢10 on the spade and had the last two tricks with the ♢Q and ♡9; +920 and 10 IMPs to SCHWARTZ.

Black v Scorway

West	North	East	South
Diamond	Black	Silverstone	Gold

6♣	All Pass

Gold showed a single-suited major over the weak NT opening and Diamond doubled to show values. Three Hearts wa spass or correct and, when Black discovered that his partner's suit was hearts, he competed further at his next turn. Eventually, Diamond just blasted the small slam. Black led a heart, Diamond winning the ace and pitching a spade from hand. He ruffed a heart and led a diamond to the king and ace. Back came a low spade, so Diamond rose with the ace and cashed all his remaining clubs, throwing three spades and a diamond from dummy. He cashed the king of spades, Gold following with the queen, then led a diamond at trick 12. When he went up with the queen, he had to concede the last trick to the ♢J so was down one for –50.

Hult bid 2♣ over the intervention then just blasted 6♣ when the bidding had reached the four level when it came back to him. Kvangraven, judging that declarer would not be worried about hearts, tried the lead od the ten of spades. Hult won the ace and drew trumps in three rounds before playing a diaond to the king and ace. He won the spade return, cashed the rest of the clubs, and led a diamond to the ten; 12 tricks for +920 and 14 IMPs to BLACK.

Five pairs bid to 6♠ and were down one, while three stopped at a making level in spades. Two pairs made 5♣, and six were in the club slam, five successfully.

It might seem that South's winning of the first diamond greatly reduced the guesswork in that suit but, of course, if South ducks the diamond, declarer discards his other diamond on the ace of hearts and just concedes a spade.

Round 3

The match between PIGOT and DONNER started with a real bang, with 39 IMPs changing hands over the first three deals.

Board 1. Dealer North. None Vul.

Glynn doubled the pre-empt but, when Celia Rimstedt raised to game, Keaveney went quietly with the North hand so that was that. Glynn led the queen of spades and Dwyer covered with the king, losing to the ace. Keaveny found a low club switch to the jack, king and ace. Dwyer led a heart to the ace followed by his singleton diamond. Glynn won the ace, cashed the jack of spades, and switched to a club; down one for –50.

Brad Moss did not double the opening bid. When Pigot raised to 4♡, Moss led the ace of diamonds. He switched to the eight of clubs, but it was too late. MacAonghusa won the ace, took a spade pitch on the king of diamonds, and led a heart to the ace; 10 tricks for +420 and 10 IMPs to PIGOT.

After the diamond had been cashed at trick one, the defence was powerless. If they cash the spade winners declarer has enough discards to avoid a club loser, while if they don't cash both spades one goes away on the diamond.

Bakke did not come in over 3♡ so Coyle's raise to 4♡ ended the auction. Bakke led the jack of spades, which held the trick, and continued with the queen . When that too hled the trick he switched to the king of clubs to dummy's ace. Silverstone could ruff out the spade before cashing the ace of hearts, but there was no fast entry to the dummy. He led a diamond up but Bakke won the ace and returned a club to his partner's queen; down one for –50.

Shenkin doubled with the South hand and Levinson bid 4NT, minors, over the heart raise. Shenkin bid 5♢ and played there. Ovesen led a heart, Thoresen winning the ace and switching to a spade. Shenkin was allowed to hold the trick with his queen and now laid down the ace of diamonds. Next he played the king of clubs, losing to the ace, and in the fullness of time lost to the ♢K and ♣J; down two for –100 and 4 IMPs to ECF HOLDING.

It looks as though Shenkin could have saved a trick. After cashing the ♢A, he could eliminate spades before exiting with a diamond to the king, and Ovesen would then have to open up clubs or give a ruff and discard.

Both Easts opened 3♡, both Souths doubled, and both Wests raised to 4♡. Now, however, Gu bid 4NT to show both minors, while Fredin passed with the North cards. Lo, of course, responded 5♢ to the 4NT bid and played there.

Apteker led the queen of spades against 4♡. When that was allowed to win the trick, he switched to the king of clubs. Baseggio won dummy's ace and gave up a spade. Fredin won that and played queen and another club. Baseggio ruffed his club winner to lead a heart from dummy, but then got the suit right by putting up the ace to fell the bare king. He led his diamond up now but Apteker won the ace and the contract was down one for –50.

Sylvan led a heart against 5♢, Morath winning the ace and switching to his trump. Lo took the finesse, putting in the queen, but that lost to the king and Sylvan returned a second trump. Lo won and led the king of clubs to Sylvan's ace and there was still the jack of clubs to come; down two for –100 and 4 IMPs to FREDIN.

Black opened a constructive weak two bid and Gold raised to game after Brogeland's overcall. Bakke bid 5♢ over that and Gold doubled to complete the auction. He led a heart, Black winning the ace and switching to a spade for the queen, king and ace. Brogeland led the ten of diamonds off the table but then rose with the ace. He cashed the spades next before exiting with a trump to achieve the endplay suggested earlier; down one for –100.

Saelensminde opened 3♡ and Paske doubled. Gillis tried to make the pressure bid now, jumping to 5♡, but his enterprise worked out poorly for him when McIntosh doubled and it was left in by Paske, who led the queen of spades. When that held the trick, Paske switched to the eight of clubs, establishing the fourth defensive trick; down two for –300 and 9 IMPs to BLACK.

I can't leave this deal without telling you about the action at one more table. In the match between HARRIS and RIPPEY, at one table East opened the popular 3♡ and Malhasyan, for HARRIS, tried an imaginative 3NT overcall. After all, a favourable vulnerability three opening doesn't promise that good a suit these days, does it? I think we can all admire this bold effort. However, West doubled and that came back to Malhasyan. If he will forgive me, while the initial overcall scores highly on the bravery scale, staying in 3NT doubled looks more like suicide. While the theme tune to the classic comedy, Mash, assures us that 'suicide is painless' this time the price was –1100 – far from painless, and cost 14 IMPs against the 5♢ doubled down one for –100 at the other table. One thing is for sure, I know someone I will never play a game of chicken against.

This proved to be a very good hand for the more random style of weak two opening. Dwyer opened 2♠ and Glynn overcalled 3♣. Celia raised to 4♠ and that put big pressure on Keaveney. He clearly intended his double to be for penalty, but Glynn took it out, bidding 4NT to show long clubs plus a second shorter suit. Keaveney chose 5♢ and Celia doubled to conclude the auction. Dwyer led a spade, so Keaveny ruffed and played the queen of hearts. Celia won the ace and returned the nine of diamonds to dummy's king. Keaveney cashed the jack of hearts then played ace and another club, ruffing low when Celia discarded a heart. He took a spade ruff, ruffed a club with the ace of trumps, and played the ♡K. That was ruffed and the over-ruff with the ♢Q was declarer's last trick; down three for –800.

There was no weak two opening at the other table, and Moss/Grue had a peaceful auction to 2♣, where Moss came to an overtrick without breaking sweat; +110 and 14 IMPs to DONNER.

The seriously weak two openings scored again, this time in the guise of a trash multi at both tables. South overcalled 3♣, West jumped to 4♡, pass or correct, and when that came back round to South he felt that he had to bid again. A double would have worked out well, as partner would have left it in, but both Leslie and Manno felt that they had too much playing potential and that a double might be left in on the wrong hand. Leslie therefore rebid 5♣, while Manno bid 4NT to show that he also had a secondary suit, and Di Franco went back to clubs, no doubt with little enthusiasm.

The good news was that neither East could find a double; the bad that the contract was two down at both tables, losing a heart and three clubs; flat at –200.

Everything was calm and peaceful at our first table, where Celia became declarer in 2♡. Keaveney led the seven of clubs, Glynn winning the ace and cashing the ace of spades before returning a club in hope of having set up a crossruff. Not this time. Celia won in hand and played ace and another trump, Glynn won the third heart and exited passively with his last trump. Keaveney was coming under pressure now and had come down to ony three diamonds. Celia therefore took the diamond finesse, cashed the ace and ruffed a diamond to set up an extra winner, and had 10 tricks for +170.

I don't show the action at the other table to make anyone look silly. Rather, it is a lesson to the amateur players reading these bulletins. If a world-class player can forget his system, as obviously happened, here, we should all be very wary of adding too many artificial agreements to our methods. How long will it take for the transfer responses, if it was Grue who remembered correctly, to pay for itself after this ridiculous result?

Pigot led a trump to the seven and jack and MacAonghusa switched to a club. That was ducked to the eight and Pigot switched to the queen of hearts. MacAonghusa won the ace and led the ten of clubs. Moss won the ace, cashed the ace of spades, then played king and another heart, ruffing. MacAonghusa over-ruffed and played ace and another trump. The king of diamonds was declarer's last trick; down six for –1400 and 15 IMPs to PIGOT.

McNay overcalled 1♡ then rebid the suit over Grossack's 2♢, and Grossack raised to game. Burgess led the seven of clubs, Leslie winning the ace and cashing the ace of spades. Next he reverted to clubs, McNay winning in hand and taking the diamond finesse. When that was successful, he took a spade discard on the ace of diamonds, ruffed a diamond and played ace and another heart. That lost to the king and Leslie returned a club to dummy's queen. McNay had to concede a spade at the end; down one for –100.

Manno opened 1♣, 10-13 balanced or clubs, and Di Franco's double of the 1♡ overcall showed four or more spades. Bell redoubled to show a top honour doubleton in his partner's suit, and Manno showed his balanced hand by rebidding 1NT. That proved to be a very bad idea. Bell doubled 1NT, ending the auction, and Norton led the two of hearts to his partner's ace. Bell continued with a second heart and the suit was cleared. Manno led a diamond to the seven and jack, won the return of the ten of spades with his bare ace, and led the ten of diamonds round to Bell's queen. Bell led the ten of clubs to the ace and nine, and Manno got out with a heart, hoping for something good to happen. Norton won the heart, cashed the king of spades, then two more hearts. At the end, the defence had two clubs and the ace of diamonds for down four and –800; 14 IMPs to LESLIE.

Nowosadzki opened 1♣ with the South cards and Kranyak overcalled 3♡. Kalita's 4♣ was a natural force facing what could have been a doubleton, and Nowosadzki raised to game and played there for a quick 12 tricks and +420.

Robinson did not open, yet it was her partnership which got to the cold slam when he was able to bid 5♣ freely over the 4♡ raise and Grossack knew that slam should be at worst on the opening lead. It wasn't. Slam was cold, so Lee saved a couple of IMPs by saving in 6♡, which was down four doubled for –800 when Robinson could over-ruff the dummy in diamonds for the fifth defensive trick; 9 IMPs to MOSS.

Paske did not open the South hand, but doubled 4♡ at his next turn. Both he and McIntosh were guessing in this auction and neither felt able to bid a slam; +420.

Brogeland opened 1♣ and Gold and Black both took away only a limited amount of their bidding space. When Brogeland felt able to rebid 4♣ when he had the option of forcing, Bakke asked for key cards then bid the grand slam. Alas, to make 7♣ would require that diamonds be three-three so that declarer could ruff the suit out and have two discards for his losing spades. With diamonds four-two, Brogeland was down one for –50 and 10 IMPs to BLACK. Getting to 6♣ would have gained 11 IMPs.

Lo opened 1♣ but then firmly refused to co-operate in a slam hunt, showing a minimum by rebidding 3♣, then failing to cuebid at his next turn. Gu accepted the sign-off and Lo made a quick +420.

Fredin's 4♡ was a club slam try, so Apteker's 5♣ was his weakest option. When Fredin went on with a second heart cuebid, Apteker was willing to co-operate as he had two key cards. And Fredin bid the grand slam; down one for –50 and 10 IMPs to NEW AMATEURS. Again, the crime of going down in Seven when the opposition had stopped in game was perpetrated. And the same thing also happened in HARRIS v RIPPEY.

Altogether, there were three pairs in 7♣-1and six pairs in 5♣. Two pairs played 6♡ doubled and one was allowed to play in 4♡ doubled. So let's complete our look at this board by taking a look at the only match in which both N/S pairs got to the small slam.

Moss/Grue bid to Six after a Precision 2♣ opener, showing long clubs up to about 15 HCP; +920 and no swing.
